Target audience

The Perio Masterclass is designed for dentists eager to master periodontal surgery, guided by one of Europe's top clinicians - a leader in international research and a mentor in continuing education at Harvard School of Dentistry. This program is ideal for both early-career practitioners and those with some clinical background, covering essential periodontal surgery techniques in-depth. Through conceptual exploration and hands-on practice sessions, participants gain both theoretical knowledge and practical expertise in a comprehensive range of periodontal procedures.

About this program

This comprehensive 8-day Perio Masterclass is tailored for implantologists, surgeons, periodontology residents, and general dentists ready to expand their clinical skill set in soft tissue management. In modern dentistry, complete oral rehabilitation goes beyond structural repair; it hinges on the effective management of soft tissues to achieve optimal aesthetics, function, and long-term oral health. Through in-depth sessions blending theory with hands-on practice, participants will master techniques essential for soft tissue enhancement, elevating their ability to deliver high-quality, aesthetically pleasing, and functionally robust outcomes.

Leverage points

This 8-day Perio Masterclass is structured into two 4-day modules, combining intensive learning with practical experience. Participants will engage in 4 full days of hands-on practice, enhanced by live or relive surgery demonstrations, creating an impactful and highly efficient learning experience. With personalized mentoring on clinical cases and a highly didactic approach, this program empowers dentists to build confidence and expertise in periodontal surgery and soft tissue management, making it an invaluable step in professional development.
